This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE

THE idea of preparing a Bruton Register sprang out of a conversation with Mr. Norton, the present Head Master, who regretted that nothing of the kind had been attempted, and urged that if one were prepared, it would not only be interesting to all concerned, but might be a means of benefiting the school, by making more widely known the names and successes of some of the former alumni.

He then pressed me to undertake that part of the work which related to Mr. Abrahall's period, mentioning the fact that as I had been his pupil seven and a half years, I probably possessed, or could acquire, much valuable information respecting those early days.

The difficulties in the way seemed great, for it is no easy matter to collect the names and addresses of former companions, some of whom are no longer able to answer the old roll-call, whilst others are scattered in different parts of the world.

Still, in default of any one else willing to undertake the task, I gladly accepted Mr. Norton's challenge, partly on account of the great debt of gratitude which I owe to him who was one of the ripest of scholars, the kindest of friends, the most painstaking of teachers, and the most liberal of masters, remembering that under Mr. Abrahall many of us learned tenui modulari carmen avena, whilst to each of us his teaching was

and partly to show, ere too late, that a comparatively small school like Bruton, under a first-rate master, has trained and sent forth to the world men who have shone in the Church, on the Bench, at the Bar, in arms and in peace, and in various fields of art, science, and literature.

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking cordially those who have helped me: almost every O. B. to whom I have written has given very valuable assistance, without which indeed I could not have succeeded to any extent; and still, as some names and events date back fifty or sixty years, errors and omissions are unavoidable.

THOMAS AUGUSTUS STRONG.

PREFACE TO THE REVISED EDITION

SINCE publishing the Bruton Register it has been suggested to me that the information it contains might be made more complete, and the record more interesting, if the parentage, &c., of the old boys could be discovered and added.

This I have endeavoured to do by corresponding with those of our number who are alive, or with their representatives; to all of whom I return my best thanks for their willing help and invaluable information.

I may add that as there are no early documentary records in existence before 1864, it is feared that there may be still omissions and mistakes in this Register. Should any such be found, I trust that those who are omitted or incorrectly described, or their surviving friends, will kindly forgive any errors which have been unintentionally made, notwithstanding all the pains bestowed on producing a complete and accurate record of Mr. Abrahall and his successors.

HEAD MASTER:

THE REV.

JOHN CHARLES JAMES HOSKYNS ABRAHALL, M.A,

Wadham College, Oxford.

INTRODUCTION

THE grammar-school of Bruton was originally founded in the eleventh year of Henry the Eighth, 1519, by Richard Fitz-James, Bishop of London, John Fitz-James, his nephew, afterwards Lord Chief Justice of England, both natives of Redlynch, near Bruton, and John Edmondes, Clerk, D.D., collated in 1517 to the Chancellorship of St. Paul's. The endowment consisted of the schoolhouse, and about an acre of ground adjoining, together with some small tenements in Bruton, the latter of which have been sold to redeem the land-tax charged upon the other parts of the property; an estate of about 160 acres of land in the parishes of St. James, Shaftesbury, and Stower Provost, in the county of Dorset, now let at £250 per annum; and one part and a half in seven in the manor of Furneaux in the parish of Warminster in the county of Wilts, the other parts being holden by Corpus Christi College, Oxford. This estate is granted out for lives, and the part belonging to the school may produce upon an average from £10 to £15 per annum. The school has since acquired possession of land in the parish of Brewham, which brings in some £150 per annum.

The foundation-deed, written in English on two sheets of parchment, bears the date Sept. 29, 1519, and is in a very fine state of preservation. It has been printed in full in "Somerset and Dorset Notes and Queries," with explanatory remarks by the Rev. F. W. Weaver[1]. The following passages occur in the deed:

"And the said Scolemaister shall teche his scolers Gramer after the gode newe ffourme used in Magdalene College in Oxford, or in the Scoole at Powles in London, or after such gode ffourme as for the tyme shall be moost used. . . . . And the said maister shall not teche his scolers song, nor other petite lernynge, as the Crosse Rewe [i.e. the alphabet], Redyng of the mateyns, or of the psalter, or such other small thyngs; nother redyng of Englissh, butt such as shall concerne lernynge of gramer: ffor the ffounders of the said schole intend with our lordes mercy oonly to have the gramer of latyn tongue so sufficiently taught that the scolers of the same profityng and proving shall in tymes to come foreyer be after their capacities perfight latyn men. . . . . And the said maister shall not at the request or praier of any person or persons dispence with his scolers to have lusum remedium or campos in any weke wheryn any holy day beside the Sonday shall fall or happen, but it shall be by the especiall licence of the said Abbott of Brewton, or his successours for the tyme beyng. . . .

"And it is ordeigned that the said maister at his ffirst comyng into his scoole every day in the mornyng shall with his scolers then gadred say devoutly for the ffounders and benefactours of the same scoole and for thencrece of the same scoole in vertue and in Kunnyng this Psalme, Deus misereatur nostri, &c.," with other prayers which are specified.

In founding Bruton School, Bishop Fitz-James and Dr. Edmondes were evidently following the example of their friend John Colet, Dean of St. Paul's, who founded St. Paul's School in 1510.

On the suppression of monasteries in the reign of Henry the Eighth the Bruton endowments came to the King, and the school was re-founded by Edward the Sixth, according to Royal Charter, by letters patent bearing date the 20th June in the second year of his reign, 1549, appointing certain commissaries "to take divers orders for the maintenance and continuance of scollars, priests, and curates," and other matters relative to the poor; and under the authority of the commission the regulation of the school was comprised.

The number of grammar-schools founded about this time is four hundred and seventy-four, those in Somersetshire being at Bruton 1519, Bath 1553, Bridgwater 1561, Bristol 1533, Crewkerne about 1550, Frome (in the forest of Selwood) about 1550, Ilminster 1550, Taunton 1522, Langport 1670, and Martock 1661.

The following is a summary of the statutes and ordinances which were made for Bruton School by the wardens and governors, by and with the advice of the Rt. Rev. Richard Beadon, D.D., Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells, Oct. 15, 1809.

1. That no papist, or protestant dissenter of whatever denomination, be capable of being elected a governor or master of the School or steward to the governors.

2. The governors to be chosen from the inhabitants of the town and parish of Bruton, and any governor ceasing to be an inhabitant shall cease to be a governor.

3. In the event of a vacancy a new governor to be elected by vote.

4. The senior and junior wardens to be appointed annually on Corpus Christi day. The senior warden to be appointed governor for the following year, and the junior warden to become senior warden.

5. In the event of a vacancy in the mastership a new master to be elected within two months.

6. Candidates to present to the governors testimonials of learning and morals.

7. The master elect to notify his election to the Bishop and be licensed by him.

8. No master to accept the curacy or chaplaincy of Bruton Hospital.

9. The house, garden, &c. to be appropriated for the master, and the school green reserved for the use of the scholars.

10. The annual salary of the master not to exceed one hundred pounds.

11. Five exhibitions to be founded of the annual value of forty pounds each, to support five scholars, at either Oxford or Cambridge, and a public examination of all the boys in the school to take place. Two clergymen from a distance to conduct the examination, after which the exhibitioners to be elected. A meeting to be held on the day following of the governors, the examining masters, scholars and friends, to commemorate the foundation of King Edward VI, beginning with divine service in the parish church, followed by sermon to be preached by some clergyman educated at the school or some other clergyman.

12. Every scholar elected to an exhibition to be admitted a member of some college in Oxford or Cambridge; no one to be elected who has not been educated at Bruton for the last three years at least; stipend payable half-yearly on receipt of a certificate of residence from the head of his college.

13. Relating to school hours and vacations.

14. Investment of rents.

15. Notice to be given to the governors of the annual meeting on Corpus Christi, and of the business to be transacted.

16. The charter of King Edward VI and the statutes to be read at the annual meeting, the master being present and invited to dine with the governors.

17. Instructions to the wardens and governors as to leases.

18. In cases of complaint either of neglect of duty or of immoral conduct, how to be dealt with.

Signed, R. BATH AND WELLS, &c.

The school is open for all boys resident in the parish of Bruton, and in the adjoining parishes of Milton-Clevedon, North and South Brewham, Pitcombe, Castle-Cary, Shepton-Montacute, Almsford (sic), Ditcheat, and Lamyat, indefinitely, free of expense. They are eligible to be admitted as soon as they can read, and may remain as long as their parents choose to send them. They are sent as a matter of course without any nomination.

The present master (1809) is the Rev. William Cosins, whose salary is £80 per annum, and a large house and garden free. He is allowed to take pupils:

his terms for board and education being £60 per annum.

There are no church preferments nor other advantages attached to the school; on the contrary, any future master will be prevented from holding the Perpetual Curacy of Bruton, which the present master holds, the governors conceiving that it interferes with the duty of the school.

The original school buildings consisted of an entrance lobby, with the Dolphin over the inner door, the Head Master's private apartments on the left hand, and on the right the schoolroom, 35 ft. 6 in. long, 14 ft. 6 in. broad, and 9 ft. 10 in. high, with the dining-hall adjoining: over both were dormitories.

It is not known when the library and the bedroom over it were built (see the photograph opposite) probably during the last century; but soon after his appointment Mr. Abrahall built the large fives-court: then, finding that the old buildings were altogether insufficient to accommodate the increased number of pupils, he built the large schoolroom and dormitory on the north side of the premises at his own expense, of the following dimensions (see Frontispiece): Schoolroom, 40 ft. by 20 ft.; height, 15½ ft. Dormitory over, 40 ft. by 20 ft.; height, 13 ft.

About 1833 the mansion in Evercreech Park (built by Sir Ralph Hopton, 1613, afterwards Lord Hopton, one of the visitors of Hugh Sexey's Hospital, forfeited after the fall of Charles I, about 1650, and sold to Thomas Sampson, containing armour, &c. in the hall) was pulled down, and Mr. Abrahall bought the fine old oak used in that building. With the panels he wainscoted the new schoolroom: a handsome inside porch screened off the outer door; and on the solid massive carved beams in the ceiling he placed shields bearing dolphins naiant and embowed, the cognizance which Bishop Fitz-James and his nephew seem to have used indiscriminately, and the Hoskyns Abrahall crests, viz. a hedgehog or, and a lion's head or.

In 1889 the Rt. Rev. Edmund Hobhouse, formerly Fellow of Merton, and Bishop of Nelson, presented to the school the boss bearing the Bishop's Dolphin, with the following inscription, now placed over the chair of the Head Master.

TO THE MEMORY OF RICHARD FITZ-JAMES,
WARDEN OF MERTON COLLEGE, BISHOP OF LONDON,
CO-FOUNDER OF THIS SCHOOL, A. D. 1519.
THIS BOSS BEARING HIS BADGE, REMOVED FROM MERTON CHAPEL, WAS PLACED HERE A. D. 1889.

The Bishop's Dolphin is still visible on the outside of the parapet of the footbridge leading from the old priory to the Parish Church; and though it has long been exposed to the inclemency of the weather, it is notwithstanding at present in a tolerable state of preservation.

The Dolphin is also to be seen in Merton Chapel, on the lectern given to the College by John Martok, Fellow in the Bishop's Wardenship; and his shield and crest are on a panel in the hall above the high table, along with those of the other Wardens.

As the Head Master's family increased he built the tower at the lower end of the garden as a quiet study for himself, which was afterwards used for the same purpose by assistant masters and senior boys.

From the wording of the original foundation-deed of the school, the letters patent of King Edward VI re-endowing it, and the statutes drawn up in 1819, it was evidently intended by the pious founders that instruction should be given of a distinctly religious character according to the doctrines and practices of the Church of England. This Mr. Abrahall recognized, and while he brought his ripe scholarship and intimate acquaintance with general literature to bear on his pupils, his highest aim was to implant within them sound morality based upon religious principles, and to make them Christian gentlemen.

Accordingly, from his first acceptance of office in 1826, the boys knelt down for private prayer every morning and evening; in addition to which he daily conducted family prayer, attended by his household and all the school.

As to the instruction given, the Bible, the Book of Common Prayer, the Church Catechism, the Thirty-nine Articles in Latin and English, with proofs from Scripture, Edward VI's Catechism, Paley's Evidences, and Thomas Hartwell Horne's analysis of his Introduction to the Critical Study of the Bible, were constantly on hand, and were a recognized part of the school work: besides which every day began and ended with a portion of the Greek Testament, the Gospels for the whole school, the Book of the Acts of the Apostles and the Epistles for the seniors; and examinations were held from time to time to show what proficiency had been made in those studies.

HEAD MASTER:

THE REV. SHOLTO MIDDLETON, M.A.

Balliol College, Oxford.

INTRODUCTION

In 1859 a new scheme for the management and regulation of Bruton School, sanctioned by the Court of Chancery, was issued. It did not apparently meet with the approval of the then Head Master, and remained in abeyance until his resignation after thirty-six years of office.

His successor was elected in 1864, when the new scheme came into full operation. The education being now on a wider basis, and including such subjects as are taught in the modern side of a great public school, attracted many boys who had no intention of proceeding to either Oxford or Cambridge.

The exhibitions, each of the value of £30, and tenable for three years, might now, after an examination by a graduate of Oxford or Cambridge, be given to deserving candidates, to advance them in life, in such manner as the Governors, at their discretion, might think most advantageous for them.

Between 1864 and 1869 the following were given to the school:—

A Silver Medal, by the Governors. The first was awarded to A. R. Cluer for Latin Verse Composition, 1869.

The Senior Warden's Prize, for the boy who at the Midsummer Examination obtained the first place in his form for Classics and Mathematics. C. T. Burges was the first to win this prize, 1867.

A flag was presented to the school by the ladies of Bruton, 1865.

HEAD MASTER:

THE REV. ARTHUR DANIEL GILL, M.A.

Trinity College, Cambridge.

INTRODUCTION

MR. MIDDLETON having resigned the Head Mastership, the Governors appointed the Rev. Arthur Daniel Gill to succeed. This seems to have been a wise choice on their part, Mr. Gill being a good all-round man; and while he attended carefully to the progress of the boys' studies he entered warmly into their amusements and sports, thus endeavouring to stamp good scholarship with vigour and force of character.

Unfortunately his health gave way, and he was soon compelled to resign his post; so that for a second time the Head Master held his office for the short period of about four years, thus giving a feeling of uncertainty to parents, whilst Sherborne was in a highly prosperous condition, and formed a strong rival to the disadvantage of Bruton.

There was another difficulty under which the school laboured about this period. "The Commissioners" resolved to reduce the King's School from the first to the second grade. This naturally stirred up the Governors and Head Master to resist such an act of injustice. A long and animated correspondence followed, and after a hard fight and much worry the objectionable proposition was withdrawn, the Commissioners were obliged to yield their point, and Bruton continues a school of the first grade.

After the death in 1846 of the Rev. John Goldesbrough, Chaplain of Hugh Sexey's Hospital, P.C. of Redlynch, and Rector of Slymbridge, Gloucestershire, "The Grove" was sold by his executors, and the Governors bought from the purchasers the portion adjoining the King's School, and upon it, during Mr. Gill's period, the new Head Master's house was built, thereby providing a greater number of bed-rooms for the boys, and enabling the whole of the apartments till then occupied by the Head Master to be used as class-rooms.

PART IV. 1873–1890.

HEAD MASTER:

THE REV. DAVID EVANS NORTON, M.A.

Oriel College, Oxford.

INTRODUCTION

In the year 1885 an amended scheme, drawn up by the Charity Commissioners for England and Wales, received the sanction of Her Majesty, and, coming into operation in the following year, superseded the scheme approved by the Court of Chancery in 1859.

The most important of the results to the school from this scheme have been (1) a substantial increase of the endowment of the school, (2) a readjustment of the fees, (3) a reorganization of the Governing Body.

1. The endowment of the school is increased by the grant from the Visitors of Sexey's Hospital of the yearly sum of £300, together with the capital sum of £1000. Of these the yearly sum is devoted to the award of scholarships tenable in the school.

2. The capitation fees, which under the previous scheme were fixed at £4 per annum for the sons of parents who resided or had died within the limits of the parish of Bruton or any adjoining parish, and £8 for all others, are now to be not less than £10 nor more than £20 for each boy per annum.

3. The Governors of the school now consist of twelve persons, of whom six are called Representative and six Co-optative Governors. The six Representative Governors are thus appointed:—

One by the Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells.

One by the Visitors of the Hospital of Hugh Sexey, Esquire, in Bruton.

Two by an electing body consisting of the members chosen to serve in Parliament for the county of Somerset, and for any cities or boroughs in the same county.

One by the Hebdomadal Council of the University of Oxford.

One by the Council of the Senate of the University of Cambridge.

The first Representative Governors thus appointed were:—

The Bishop of Bath and Wells, The Palace, Wells.

T. H. M. Bailward, Esq., J.P., Horsington, Wincanton.

The Rev. Preb. Dyne, D.D. (O.B.), Rogate, Petersfield.

Theodore Thring, Esq., J.P., Ansford, Castle Cary.

B. B. Rogers, Esq. (O.B.), Cleveland Square, W.

The Ven. Archdeacon Norris, D.D., Bristol.

The three last of these having resigned were succeeded by:—

J. F. F. Horner, Esq., J.P., Mells Park, Frome.

Major Sherston, J.P., Discove House, Bruton.

A. J. Goodford, Esq., J.P., Chilton Cantilo, Ilchester.

To these were co-opted:—

H. Hobhouse, Esq., M.P., Hadspen House, Castle Cary.

The Rev. H. T. Ridley, the Vicarage, Bruton.
T. O. Bennett, Esq., Bruton.
W. Bennett, Esq., Bruton.
W. Müller, Esq., Bruton.
F. Stockwell, Esq., M.D., Bruton.

The Head Master during this period was the first tenant of the New House, which was completed in 1872. This house contained originally, besides the Head Master's private residence, accommodation for some twelve boarders, together with a dining-hall 30 ft. long by 18 ft. broad. In the year 1877 however, both houses being nearly full, some addition was deemed advisable: a further wing was therefore added to the New House in 1878, increasing the sleeping accommodation, extending the dining hall, and providing a sick room and nurse's room at the top of the house. There is now ample room in the two houses for some sixty boarders.

Further additions to the school buildings were made in 1890 in the shape of two Fives-courts, below the old court in the playground, and a carpenter's workshop; while the old library (see photograph, p. 21), lately used as a class-room, was in 1891 restored to its original purpose, and now contains, besides a large collection of books, portraits of the more distinguished Old Brutonians of the century.
